unlocking your talents

Young Labour

my life my say

Dear friend,

The choices you make now – as a young person – will affect what happens later in your life. Labour believes in providing a fair start for everybody in life and ensuring opportunity for all to reach their full potential.

As Vice-Chair Youth, my promise to you is that I will ensure that your views and your ideas are put firmly on the agenda. The young people that I have worked with have a real enthusiasm and understanding of how to positively change this country and the world.

Labour really values the ideas that young people have to make – and I encourage you to stand up and speak up for how together we can build a better Britain.

Dawn Butler MP
Labour's Vice Chair Youth

Labour: Supporting young people

Labour is the party that supports the dreams and goals of every young person in Britain. Here are a few examples of the kind of progress Labour has made to help young people:

- more young people are at University than ever before
- 270,000 young people across the country have benefited from Education Maintenance grants, helping students stay on in education or training
- if you want to learn a trade, Labour will support you. The number of apprenticeships has more than trebled since 1997, increasing to more than 255,000
- young people will not only get new and improved local youth facilities, thanks to Labour they get a say in what those facilities will be and how the money should be spent
- young people are achieving some of the best ever results at 11, 14, and 16
- thinking of getting your foot on the property ladder? Affordable housing is a priority for Labour with plans for 3 million more homes and 5 eco towns
- young people are affected by crime. That's why Labour has introduced tougher and longer sentences for serious crimes, built more prison places, taken action to cut re-offending, and introduced neighbourhood policing.

But Labour's commitment to unlocking the talents of every young person does not stop there.

• Unlocking talent

Labour is making the greatest change in education in over half a century by guaranteeing the right to school or college, an apprenticeship or training free of charge until the age of 18. We will boost the number of apprenticeships for 16 to 18 year olds to 90,000 in the coming years.

• School sports

Labour is increasing investment in school sports with £30 million over the next three years to help the most needy sports colleges build new pitches, install floodlights and provide better drainage so facilities can be used all year and round the clock.

• Helping your pocket

From 2011 around 600,000 university students will be entitled to a maintenance grant

• Experience the arts

Labour has committed £25 million to a new 'Find Your Talent' scheme to give young people in England the chance to experience high quality arts and culture.

• See the world

Labour has launched a new £10 million global volunteering scheme for young adults between 18 and 25 years old. This scheme will focus on young adults from less advantaged backgrounds and fund 10 week programmes abroad where participants will live and work in developing countries.

We want to hear from you!

What more should Labour do to ensure that all young people get the very best start in life? That there are places for young people to go and things to see? That everybody's talents are unlocked? And that we all have the chance to succeed?

But Labour doesn't just talk about young people, we listen too. We want you to tell us what's important to you – it's your life, so have your say!

Go to mylifemysay.co.uk and tell us what you want!
